Seasonal State Route 148 Closure Provides Winter Recreation Access at Cedar Breaks

CEDAR CITY, Utah – The seasonal closure of State Route 148 through Cedar Breaks National Monument to vehicle traffic is now in effect, providing visitors access to the monument's high-elevation winter landscape by snowmobile, cross-country skis and snowshoes.

Snowmobile use is only permitted on the designated route that follows State Route 148, marked by orange snow poles. To protect sensitive meadowlands beneath the snow, traveling outside the marked route is prohibited.

Visitors may also explore the monument on cross-country skis and snowshoes. North View Overlook remains accessible by vehicle via State Route 143, weather and road conditions permitting.

The Cedar Breaks Visitor Center, Zion Forever Project Park Store, Human History Museum and campground are closed for the winter season. Visitors should plan ahead and come prepared for winter conditions, as no visitor services are available within the monument while seasonal facilities are closed.

For alternate routes and more information, visit the Utah Department of Transportation website.

Learn more about winter recreation access on the monument's website.
